FOREWORD

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS,
Washington, DC, December 28, 1988.

Under rule X of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 136 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946, the Committee on Foreign Affairs is authorized to exercise continuous surveillance of the execution by the executive branch of laws within the committee's jurisdiction. The review of "oversight" activities of the Committee on Foreign Affairs was augmented by the adoption of section 118 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1970 (Public Law 91-150), as amended by Public Law 92-136. This provision requires standing committees of the House and the Senate after January 1, 1973, to make reports to their respective Houses on their activities in reviewing and studying the "application, administration, and execution of those laws or parts of laws, the subject of which is within the jurisdiction of that committee."

House committees are required to file such reports "not later than January 2 of each odd-numbered year." It is in fulfillment of the obligation of the Committee on Foreign Affairs to account to the House for its legislative review activities during the 100th Congress that this report has been prepared and submitted.

The body of this report was prepared by Emily Claire Norman, a staff associate for the full committee. Appendix I: The Inventory of Committee Jurisdiction was prepared by Dianne Rennack, Technical Information Specialist, Foreign Affairs and National Defense Division of the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress.

LEGISLATIVE REVIEW ACTIVITIES

DECEMBER 28, 1988.—Committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union and ordered to be printed

Mr. FASCELL, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, submitted the following

REPORT

I. INTRODUCTION: OVERSIGHT IN THE FOREIGN AFFAIRS FIELD

A. Authorities for Legislative Review

The responsibilities and potentialities of legislative review are reflected in the multiple authorities which are available to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. The most prominent is section 118 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1970 (Public Law 91-510):

LEGISLATIVE REVIEW BY STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

(a) Scope of assistance.

In order to assist the Congress in—

(1) Its analysis, appraisal, and evaluation of the application, administration, and execution of the laws enacted by the Congress; and

(2) Its formulation, consideration, and enactment of such modifications of or changes in those laws, and of such additional legislation, as may be necessary or appropriate, each standing committee of the Senate and the House of Representatives shall review and study, on a continuing basis, the application, administration, and execution of those laws, or parts of laws, the subject matter of which is within the jurisdiction of that committee. Such committees may carry out the required analysis, appraisals, and evaluation themselves, or by contract, or may require a Government agency to do so and furnish a report thereon to the Congress. Such committees may rely on such techniques as pilot testing, analysis of costs in comparison with benefits, or provision for evaluation after a defined period of time.<sup>1</sup>

A second type of authority fostering legislative review is the "special oversight" granted by the House Committee Reform Amendments of 1974 (H. Res. 988, approved Oct. 8, 1974). Special oversight, which is intended to enable committees to conduct comprehensive oversight of matters directly bearing upon their specified responsibilities even if those matters fall within the jurisdiction of other standing committees, permits an expansion of the legislative review jurisdiction of a committee. The Committee on Foreign Affairs was granted special oversight in four areas by the Committee Reform Amendments of 1974 (H. Res. 988):

3. (d) The Committee on Foreign Affairs shall have the function of reviewing and studying, on a continuing basis, all laws, programs, and Government activities dealing with or involving customs administration, intelligence activities relating to foreign policy, international financial and monetary organizations, and international fishing agreements.

Frequently reporting requirements in legislation obligate various agencies, directly or through the President, to submit reports of certain activities to the Committee on Foreign Affairs or to the Speaker of the House, who then transmits them to the committee. The House Committee on Foreign Affairs is the recipient of one of the largest quantities of required reports from the executive branch.<sup>2</sup>

In addition to the authorities noted above, the congressional budget process provides the committee with another important tool for oversight. Pursuant to section 301(c) of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Act of 1974, each standing committee of the House is required to submit to the Committee on the Budget, no later than March 15 of each year, a report containing its views and estimates on the President's proposed budget for the coming fiscal year. This requirement affords the committee and its subcommittees the opportunity to review those items in the President's budget which come under the committee's jurisdiction, and to establish possible guidelines for subsequent action on authorizing legislation.

A final authority which can have an impressive oversight impact is implicit in the authorization process. Regular and frequent reauthorization of program or agency operations by committees presents the opportunity to investigate administrative personnel hiring and promotion practices, agency organization, employee development and benefit programs, policy guidance, and administrative rules and regulations regarding the implementation and execution of policy, among other items. The authorization process also permits program evaluation, an important oversight technique.

<sup>1</sup> Section 701 of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-344) amended the original mandate and authority of the 1970 act by adding the last two sentences regarding program review and evaluation.

<sup>2</sup> The Clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives publishes "Reports to be Made to Congress" each session. The most recent issue was printed January 25, 1988, as House Document 100-160, 100th Congress, 2d session. Additionally, the committee published "Required Reports to Congress on Foreign Policy," dated August 1, 1988. This committee print was prepared by the Foreign Affairs and National Defense Division of the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress.

The legislative review activities of the Committee on Foreign Affairs are sanctioned by various and extensive authorities—the basic mandate of the 1970 Legislative Reorganization Act, the broadened jurisdiction and special oversight provided by the House Committee Reform Amendments of 1974, statutory reporting requirements, and the authorization process.

B. Recent Oversight Developments in the Committee on Foreign Affairs

During the 95th Congress, the committee received jurisdictional authority over export controls involving nonproliferation of nuclear technology and nuclear hardware, and international commodity agreements involving cooperation in the export of nuclear technology and nuclear hardware. This new jurisdictional authority was provided for by House Resolution 5, which passed the House on January 4, 1977.

In the 96th Congress, the committee's jurisdiction was not enlarged. However, the committee in its organization for the 96th Congress reduced the number of subcommittees from nine to eight. Deleted was the Subcommittee on International Development whose jurisdiction included: (1) dealing with the Agency for International Development and other U.S. agencies' operations affecting development; (2) administration of foreign assistance; (3) oversight of multilateral assistance programs; (4) population and food programs; and (5) legislation and oversight with respect to the Peace Corps, which was subsumed by the full committee. The subcommittees for the 96th Congress, representing a mix of geographical and functional responsibilities, were as follows:

Subcommittee on International Security and Scientific Affairs;

Subcommittee on International Operations;

Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East;

Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade;

Subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs;

Subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs;

Subcommittee on Africa; and Subcommittee on International Organizations.

In the 97th Congress, the subcommittees remained the same with the exception of the Subcommittee on International Organizations, whose name was changed to the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations, in order to delineate clearly its jurisdiction over the subject of human rights.

For the 98th Congress, the subcommittee structure remained the same; however, the name of the Subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs was changed to the Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere Affairs. In addition, a special task force was created under the aegis of the full committee, the Task Force on International Narcotics Control. The purpose of this task force was to provide oversight of narcotics-related rules over which the committee has jurisdiction pursuant to rule X of the Rules of the House, which includes the following:

Narcotics control programs conducted by the Department of State;

Narcotics-related projects carried out by the Agency for International Development (AID);

Overseas activities of the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) and Customs personnel;

Narcotics control programs carried out by international organizations;

Intelligence issues related to narcotics trafficking and control;

Prisoner exchange programs and their impact on U.S. narcotics control efforts;

Narcotics interdiction programs and agreements;

Narcotics-related efforts by the U.S. Information Agency; and Relationship between international banking/financial transactions and narcotics trafficking.

Subcommittee structure remained the same for the 99th Congress; however, the name of the Subcommittee on International Security and Scientific Affairs was changed to the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science. This change was made to reflect the committee's and subcommittee's concern over the important issue of arms control. The jurisdiction of the subcommittee was redefined in the rules of the Committee on Foreign Affairs to read, "To deal with * * * all aspects of arms control and disarmament with particular emphasis on the investigation and evaluation of arms control and disarmament proposals and concepts; * * *".

Under the rules of the House, the Committee on Foreign Affairs has jurisdiction over issues involving international terrorism pursuant to rule X of the Rules of the House, paragraphs (i)(1), (i)(4-10), and (i)(12-16). For the 99th Congress, two subcommittee jurisdictional changes were made to reflect the committee's concern with international terrorism. The Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science was given jurisdiction over " * * * international terrorism with special focus on the U.S. Government's policies and programs for combating international terrorist movements and actions; * * *". The Subcommittee on International Operations jurisdictional responsibility was redefined to include " * * * international terrorism with special emphasis on policies and programs relating to the enhancement for embassy security and the protection of U.S. personnel and institutions abroad; * * *".

In addition, two subcommittees had language added to their respective definitions providing responsibility for oversight of international communication and information policy. Lastly, the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations was given the responsibility over international law.

No changes were made in subcommittee structure or jurisdiction for the 100th Congress.

C. Oversight Activities and Criteria

The oversight activities of the Committee on Foreign Affairs include a variety of instruments and mechanisms—full committee and subcommittee hearings, member study missions abroad, staff surveys abroad, special Congressional Research Service studies, and General Accounting Office assistance and reports in the field of international relations.

Committee and subcommittee hearings may be conducted for numerous purposes and may serve more than one function (i.e. oversight, legislation, public education) simultaneously. Thus, oversight may exist even when the hearing is not explicitly intended for that purpose. The criteria for determining whether a hearing performs the oversight function were identified by the House Select Committee on Committees in 1973 and are as follows:<sup>3</sup>

- (1) To review and control unacceptable forms of bureaucratic behavior;
- (2) To insure that bureaucracy implements the policy objectives of the Congress;
- (3) To analyze national and international problems requiring Federal action; and
- (4) To determine the effectiveness of legislative programs and policies.

These same purposes help to define other committee activity which relates to its legislative review function. It should be noted that not all such activity can be included in this report. Oversight may occur informally, not only through the formal processes and mechanisms noted above. Informal discussions between committee members and administrative officials may constitute oversight in certain instances as may staff examination of agency activity and behavior and staff consultation with agency personnel apart from the normal hearing process.

In summary, the legislative review activities of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs for the 100th Congress rely on extensive authorities embodied in the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1970 and reinforced through subsequent legislation, reporting requirements, the authorization process, and additional committee jurisdictional responsibilities.

II. GENERAL REVIEW ACTIVITIES OF THE COMMITTEE

A. Inventory of Committee Jurisdiction

In order to facilitate compliance with section 118 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1970, the committee has maintained a list of legislative acts or parts of acts which fall entirely or partially within the committee's jurisdiction. The inventory is subdivided according to the jurisdictional categories established for the committee by rule X of the Rules of the House of Representatives.

The jurisdiction as defined in the rule was made effective on January 4, 1977, pursuant to House Resolution 5. The completed and updated inventory may be found as an appendix to this report. (See appendix I.)

B. Executive Branch Reports

Reporting requirements in legislation and the reports submitted in response to them constitute one of the oldest information systems used by Congress. On every subject with which Congress deals, required reports offer a way to oversee and review the implementation of legislation by the executive branch.

In the foreign policy field, it is particularly important to insure that reporting requirements and the resultant reports submitted by the executive branch are an efficient mechanism for supplying Congress with information. Information on domestic problems is often easier to obtain from sources outside the executive branch than information on problems from abroad. Moreover, the executive branch has sometimes attempted to shield its activities in the foreign policy field from public view and treat it as its exclusive domain. The lack of information on foreign policy problems and executive branch activities has been one of the major reasons it has been more difficult for Congress to find and play its legitimate role in the making of foreign policy although the Constitution expressly shares such powers between Congress and the President.

For the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the improvement of the system of required reports offers more than tidier housekeeping. It offers another step toward a better supply of information that Congress needs to make foreign policy decisions. Through the careful placing of reporting requirements in legislation, the patient monitoring of the reports submitted by the executive branch in response to the requirements and utilization of the data supplied in them, Congress can improve its capacity for an effective foreign policy role.

C. Reference Documents

Periodically the Committee on Foreign Affairs compiles, prints, and distributes official documents which are useful to the membership in exercising the oversight function as well as other responsibilities. The following is a listing of those compilations for the 100th Congress:

1. Legislation on Foreign Relations.—This volume was prepared under the direction of the staff of the Committee on Foreign Affairs with the assistance of the Foreign Affairs and National Defense Division of the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress. This collection of laws and related material contains texts referred to by the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and the Foreign Relations Committee of the U.S. Senate, amended to date, and annotated to show pertinent history or cross references. The collection of over 3,954 pages include all laws concerning foreign relations, codified and in force, treaties in force, as well as executive agreements and orders, State Department regulations and State Department delegations of authority as of December 31, 1987.

2. Congress and Foreign Policy.—As Congress has continued to maintain an active role in the conduct of United States foreign policy, the need exists for a document summarizing congressional participation in this important area. For this reason, since 1974, the Foreign Affairs Committee has requested that the Foreign Affairs and National Defense Division, Congressional Research Service, Library of Congress, prepare annual reports on actions taken by Congress which impact on American foreign policy. Accordingly, "Congress and Foreign Policy, 1985-86" was published in December of 1987. This study discussed the following areas: South Africa sanctions; aid to the Nicaraguan contras; arms control; trade; foreign aid; the Philippines, African economic crisis, and international terrorism.

3. Survey of Activities.—This report is prepared biannually by the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and provides a comprehensive survey of the committee's activities during the current session of Congress. The purpose of the report is to provide the members of the Committee on Foreign Affairs and the membership of the House with a record of the activities through which the committee has discharged its responsibilities for legislative and oversight matters affecting the foreign affairs of the United States.

Among the features of the document are: (1) summaries of all legislation considered by the committee, providing the history of measures enacted into law and concurrent and House resolutions that were adopted; (2) a summary by subcommittee of its activities for the year; (3) a complete listing of all witnesses appearing before the committee and its subcommittees; (4) a complete listing of all House reports, hearings, and committee prints published by the committee, and (5) the text of all measures enacted into law and of resolutions on which final action was taken.

The Survey of Activities, 100th Congress edition will be published in January of 1989.

4. Legislative Calendar.—This compendium of committee legislative information is published annually. Each volume includes a current listing and status of all committee legislation; committee publications and reports; executive communications and messages from the President referred to the committee; House floor amendments to committee legislation; a budgetary status chart of Foreign Affairs Committee legislation for the respective fiscal year, and a legislative progress chart.

D. General Accounting Office Reports

The General Accounting Office (GAO), an arm of the Congress specifically designed to augment legislative review, provides reports, audits, and evaluations of programs and proposals for the Congress. Relevant to the jurisdiction of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the GAO produced a total of 42 reports in 1987 and 27 reports in 1988. These reports are an integral part of the oversight function as they provide intensive analysis, financial accountings, and reviews of administrative procedure and implementation of policies under the committee's jurisdiction. A listing of the GAO reports for 1987 and 1988 relevant to the committee's jurisdiction can be found in Appendix II.

E. Study Missions and Participation in International Conferences and Events

The committee has kept itself informed of the latest developments in foreign affairs. The usual frequent conferences with high government officials, both civil and military, have been augmented by special study missions to various parts of the world to obtain firsthand knowledge of the problems of foreign countries and the administration of U.S. programs and operations falling within the purview of the committee. Committee members have also been designated to serve as official delegates to a number of international conferences and events.

III. SUMMARIES OF OVERSIGHT ACTIVITIES BY FULL COMMITTEE AND SUBCOMMITTEES

A. Full Committee

1. Hearings

(a) Foreign Assistance.—During the spring of 1987, the full committee conducted extensive hearings reviewing current economic and security assistance programs, and the President's fiscal year 1988 and 1989 requests for foreign economic and military assistance. In the course of these hearings various issues were examined including: (1) the situation in Central America, with special emphasis on funding for the Nicaraguan resistance movement; (2) an apparent trend during the Reagan Administration to decrease development assistance, but increase military and Economic Support Fund (ESF) assistance; (3) the implementation of international narcotics control programs; (4) U.S. efforts in relation to the worldwide AIDS epidemic, especially on the African continent; (5) the world food situation and administration proposals for food and agricultural export legislation; (6) the status of negotiations with specific countries on U.S. base rights agreements; and, (7) an extensive evaluation of the Peace Corps, focusing both on existing projects and future goals. Witnesses before the committee included the Secretaries of State and Defense, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Director of the Agency for International Development, and the Director of the Peace Corps.

(b) International Terrorism.—During the 100th Congress, members of the Committee on Foreign Affairs and designated staff engaged in various oversight activities involving international terrorism, with particular emphasis on the implementation of the Foreign Airport Security Act (Public Law 99-83) and the Omnibus Diplomatic Security and International Terrorism Act. The Committee on Foreign Affairs conducted numerous oversight hearings and briefings on the implementation of the Foreign Airport Security Act and on the Omnibus Diplomatic Security and International Terrorism Act of 1986.

Committee members and staff conducted several study missions as part of the committee's oversight of the above legislation. In January 1988, Honorable Olympia J. Snowe, Ranking Minority member of the Subcommittee on International Operations led a study mission to Yugoslavia, Poland, and Berlin. The delegation met with high-ranking Foreign Ministry and Interior Ministry officials in each of the countries visited to discuss cooperation with the United States on counter-terrorism policy and reviewed the adequacy of international airport security procedures in Belgrade. The report of this study mission entitled: "Counter-Terrorism Policy and Embassy Security in Eastern Europe" was published in March of 1988.

In April of 1988, designated staff conducted a study mission to Korea and Hong Kong. The purpose of the trip was to discuss counter-terrorism policy, to review the security preparations for the International Olympic games in Seoul, and to review the adequacy of airport security measures in Seoul and Hong Kong international airports. The staff filed a classified report on their findings with the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

In September of 1988, Honorable Larry Smith, a member of the Subcommittees on Europe and the Middle East and on International Operations, accompanied by staff attended meetings of the North Atlantic Assembly's (NAA) Subcommittee on International Terrorism. Congressman Smith is co-rapporteur of the NAA Subcommittee on International Terrorism. In addition to the NAA meetings, the delegation conducted a series of bilateral meetings with high-level officials of the Greek Government on the issue of counter-terrorism policy in general and the specific issues surrounding the assassination of Naval Attache, Captain Nordeen, the City of Poros incident and the U.S. extradition request for the terrorist, Mohammad Rashid. In addition to these meetings, the staff conducted a follow-up visit to the international airport in Athens and met with U.S. airline officials and Greek Government airport officials. Congressman Smith filed a classified report on his findings with the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

In August of 1987 the committee published a committee print entitled "International Terrorism: A Compilation of Major Laws, Treaties, Agreements, and Executive Documents." This report is a comprehensive sourcebook of major legislative and executive branch efforts to combat the spread of international terrorism.

Tunisia.—The Committee on Foreign Affairs has conducted regular oversight activities during the 100th Congress with respect to North Africa in general and Tunisia in specific. The committee held a number of regular informal briefings with representatives of the Departments of State, Defense and the intelligence community. In addition, the committee met with representatives of the Government of Tunisia when given the opportunity and with all other interested parties in Tunisia.

Further, staff conducted a staff study mission to review the political, economic and security situation in Tunisia and their implications for U.S. policy. This report was published in May of 1987 under the same title.

(c) Foreign Policy Export Controls.—In February of 1987 and again in 1988, the full committee held hearings with the Secretary of Commerce to review the annual report from the Department of Commerce on activities in the area of export controls and enforcement. The late Secretary Malcolm Baldrige testified in 1987 on the report and on the export control provisions contained in the proposed omnibus trade legislation. In 1988, Secretary William Verrity surveyed the Department's annual report for the committee.

(d) Persian Gulf.—In light of the administration's decision to provide U.S. flag protection to Kuwaiti oil tankers transiting through the Persian Gulf, the full committee conducted extensive hearings in June of 1987 to review United States policy in the Gulf. The hearings focused on an examination of the prevailing policy for the last 40 years with respect to the Gulf region, which has utilized both diplomatic and political activities, as well as a strong military presence. This policy was called into question by the heightened hostilities in the Iran/Iraq war, the tragic attack on the U.S.S. Stark, and the reservations surrounding the decision to reflag Kuwaiti oil tankers. The Secretary of the Defense, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs all testified at these hearings.

(e) Central America.—In October of 1987, the full committee met with the Secretary of State to review the situation in Central America. In particular, the hearing concentrated on the progress or the lack thereof of the peace initiative in Central America. The Secretary of State discussed three current developments which provided a major opening for peace: (1) the success of the democratic forces of the Nicaraguan resistance; (2) the Wright-Reagan peace plan—an agreement reached between President Reagan and Speaker of the House Wright which made clear that basic U.S. security objectives in Central America are not a matter for partisan dispute; and (3) the Guatemala Agreement—a meeting attended by Presidents Arias of Costa Rica, Azcona of Honduras, Cerezo of Guatemala, Duarte of El Salvador, and President Ortega of Nicaragua to consider a regional peace agreement.

(f) Reagan-Gorbachev Summit.—The full committee met in December of 1987 to review the achievements of the December, 1987 summit in Washington, D.C., between President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev. With the assistance of a distinguished panel of private witnesses, the committee evaluated the INF Treaty signed at the summit which eliminated all long and short range intermediate nuclear forces, and reviewed the progress made on efforts to remove Soviet troops from Afghanistan. In addition, members of the committee and the panel of witnesses also considered those issues not resolved at the summit, including an agreement on space defense weapons, an agreed-upon interpretation of the ABM Treaty, and changes in Soviet human rights policy.

(g) United States-Japan Nuclear Cooperation Agreement.—In December of 1987 and March of 1988, the full committee held oversight hearings to examine and consult with the executive branch on the Proposed Agreement negotiated between the United States and Japan with respect to nuclear cooperation. The Proposed Agreement would supersede the 1968 Nuclear Cooperation Agreement between the United States and Japan. Concerns were expressed regarding provisions in the Agreement granting Japan advance programmatic approval for plutonium use in future Japanese facilities, approving concepts relating to the national safeguard measures, allowing for suspension of cooperation under the Agreement, and requiring the return of separated plutonium from Europe to Japan via air without specific prior U.S. approval. Witnesses included the Chairman of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Acting Assistant Director for Nuclear and Weapons Control, Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and the Ambassador-at-Large from the Department of State.

(h) U.S. Foreign and National Security Policy.—The Secretaries of State and Defense met with the committee in February and March of 1988 to report on the status of U.S. foreign affairs policies and programs, and the President's military assistance request for fiscal year 1989. Secretary of State George Shultz discussed the current situations with respect to Central America, Afghanistan, the Iran-Iraq conflict, international terrorism, and the drug-trafficking problem. In addition, the Secretary outlined those items on the priority agenda for 1988, namely, U.S.-Soviet relations and arms control, peace progress in Central America, and allied cooperation and bilateral relationships. Secretary of Defense Frank Carlucci discussed with the committee the President's Report on National Security Strategy, and outlined the components of the administration's request for military assistance for fiscal year 1989.

(i) United States-Canada Trade Agreement.—The committee met in March of 1988 to scrutinize the proposed Free Trade Agreement between the United States and Canada. The United States Trade Representative and the Chief Negotiator of the proposed Agreement testified before the committee on the impact of this Agreement on U.S.-Canadian relations, the economic impact on both countries, and the benefits to both countries of the proposed Agreement.

(j) INF Treaty and Arms Control.—In March of 1988, the committee held hearings on the implications of the Intermediate Range Nuclear Forces Treaty, signed in December 1987 by President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev, for U.S. arms control and national security policy. The hearings focused on the contributions of the treaty to U.S. national security interests, European reactions to the INF treaty, implications of the treaty for conventional spending and arms control, verification provisions of the treaty, their adequacy and possible applications to other agreements, including a strategic nuclear weapons agreement. Witnesses included the Head of the U.S. Delegation to the Geneva Arms Control Talks and the Special Adviser to the President and Secretary of State on Arms Control Matters.

(k) Overview of Peace Corps Programs.—The committee held a hearing in April of 1988 with the Director of the Peace Corps and private and Congressional witnesses, to review the current activities and budget of the Peace Corps. In addition, the hearing focused on proposed legislation providing for a Peace Corps training and educational benefits demonstration program.

(l) Intelligence Oversight Act of 1988.—In June of 1988 the full committee held a series of hearings to consider the Intelligence Oversight Act of 1988, which was jointly referred to the committee and the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence. This measure was jointly referred to the committee based on its oversight responsibility of the foreign policy implications of intelligence activities, and specifically for section 2 of the bill which would repeal section 662 of the Foreign Assistance Act. Section 662 of the Foreign Assistance Act requires the President to notify the Congress of covert operations "in a timely fashion." The Intelligence Oversight Act of 1988 as reported by the Intelligence Committee changed the notification requirement to Congress to a time period of 48 hours. Testimony was received on this important issue from Honorable William H. Webster, Director of Central Intelligence, Honorable Frank C. Carlucci, Secretary of Defense, representatives of the Department of State, and the General Counsel to the Clerk of the United States House of Representatives.

(m) Conventional Arms Talks.—The full committee held a series of joint hearings in June and July of 1988, with the Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe to examine the status of conventional arms talks in Europe. The hearings focused on the actions taken by NATO Members to permit the expansion of the Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe from human rights questions into areas encompassing military security issues affecting East-West relations. Concerns expressed during the hearings centered on the ability of the Commission to maintain its strength in pursuing human rights progress while expanding its knowledge of security issues. In addition, the hearings examined the status of the conventional arms talks underway in Europe. Witnesses included Members of Congress, the Assistant Secretary, Bureau of European and Canadian Affairs, Department of State, and the Assistant Secretary for International Security Policy, Department of Defense.

(n) International Narcotics Control.—During the 100th Congress, the Task Force on International Narcotics held 16 hearings on topics dealing with the worldwide problem of narcotics control. In addition, the Task Force held numerous meetings with representatives of the United States Government, foreign dignitaries, and foreign law enforcement officials. The Task Force also developed recommendations for the 1988 omnibus anti-drug bill which were incorporated with amendments into Title IV of H.R. 5210, the omnibus bill which became Public Law 100-690. Many of the provisions in the drug legislation stemmed directly from the Task Force's oversight of international narcotics issues, as well as General Accounting Office (GAO) reports mandated by the committee to assess the effectiveness of U.S. international narcotics control programs.

In 1987, the Task Force began its series of hearings in March with a review of the worldwide drug situation and international narcotics control programs in general, and specifically with an examination of Latin American narcotics control issues. The role of the intelligence community in international narcotics control was the topic of a hearing held in May of 1987, during which the Task Force learned how the Reagan administration had organized the various agencies involved, and coordinated their differing roles in narcotics intelligence production and dissemination. In May of 1987, the Task Force reviewed narcotics control issues in the Bahamas and the Caribbean, which are major transit points for drugs coming into the United States. U.S. narcotics control efforts in Southeast Asia were the topic of hearings in June and July of 1987. Also in July, the Task Force met to receive a status report from the General Accounting Office on its ongoing review of U.S. international narcotics control programs. In October of 1987, the Task Force met twice, first to scrutinize the Department of State's mid-year update report, mandated by law, on the international narcotics control situation; and second, to examine the status of U.S. extradition treaties and mutual legal assistance treaties as they relate to narcotics violations.

The Task Force continued its hearings in 1988 with surveys of the narcotics trade and the administration's response in South America, Southeast/Southwest Asia, the Middle East, and Africa, and Central America, Colombia, and the Caribbean. In March of 1988, the Task Force met to review the Department of State's annual International Narcotics Control Strategy Report to Congress on major narcotics producing and transit nations. This report accompanies the President's certifications on whether these countries have "fully cooperated" with the United States in antinarcotics efforts. Finally, in September of 1988, the Task Force met to evaluate the report, prepared by the Department of State, mandating twice a year reports on drug-related corruption in foreign countries, and imposing sanctions on any country on which positive findings regarding corruption are made.

(o) Legislative Measures.—In addition, during the 100th Congress, the full committee met to consider numerous legislative measures including: authorizations for the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, the Department of State, United States Information Agency (USIA), the Board for International Broadcasting (BIB), the Overseas Private Investment Corporation (OPIC), the Trade Reform Act, the Omnibus Drug Initiative Act of 1988, and Bangladesh disaster assistance. A complete listing of all legislation which was acted upon by the committee may be found in Appendix IV: Legislative Progress Chart for the 100th Congress.

2. Other Activities

(a) Briefings.—Throughout the 100th Congress, the committee conducted briefings, both in open and closed sessions, to keep abreast of events in various troubled areas of the world. Specifically, briefings were held on the sale of F-5 aircraft to Honduras, the status of MIAs/POWs, worldwide human rights abuse, the situation in Haiti, major U.S. military sales to foreign countries, the Middle East, the situation in Nicaragua and Honduras, the situation in the Persian Gulf, the sale of the Aegis Weapons System to Japan, the situation in Haiti and Panama, and the shooting down of a Iranian A300 airbus over the Persian Gulf. Continuous briefings were held throughout 1987 and 1988 on the Geneva arms control talks, the Reagan-Gorbachev summit meetings, and the international narcotics control situation.

(b) Reports Pursuant to Law.—In a continuing effort to review the application of laws within the committee's jurisdiction, the committee published certain reports submitted to the Congress pursuant to public law. These included the eighth and ninth annual reports prepared by the Department of State on Science, Technology and American Diplomacy, pursuant to section 503(b) of the Foreign Relations Act of 1978; Fiscal Year 1988 and 1989 Arms Control Impact Statements, submitted by the President pursuant to section 36 of the Arms Control and Disarmament Act; the 1986 and 1987 Country Reports on Human Rights Practices, prepared by the Department of State, in accordance with sections 116(d) and 502(b) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended; and the 1986 and 1987 annual reports of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, submitted pursuant to section 50 of the Arms Control and Disarmament Act, as amended.

In February of 1988, a committee print entitled, "International Physical Security Standards for Nuclear Materials Outside the United States—Reports to Congress Pursuant to Section 604 of the Omnibus Diplomatic Security and Anti-Terrorism Act of 1986 (Public Law 99-399)" was published. The Omnibus Diplomatic Security and International Terrorism Act of 1986 was passed by Congress in 1986 to respond to increasing and comprehensive threats posed by international terrorism. One part of the legislation directed five U.S. Government agencies to review the adequacy of physical protection measures applied to shipments and storage (outside the United States) of nuclear material subject to U.S. prior consent rights. The reviews called for in the legislation are designed to assist the Congress in its attempt to discern the nature and scope of this potential problem, to judge the adequacy of current physical protection measures, and to anticipate any new measures which may be desirable. Given the public interest in this subject, the committee published the reports submitted by the Departments of Energy, Defense, State, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission pursuant to this reporting requirement as the above-mentioned committee print.

In August of 1988, the committee published a study prepared for the committee by the Foreign Affairs Division of the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress of reporting requirements in the foreign affairs field. The House Foreign Affairs Committee and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee published in 1973 an analysis and assessment by the Congressional Research Service of all foreign affairs reporting requirements and the reports submitted by the executive branch in response. In 1985 the Congressional Research Service was asked to review and assess the reporting requirements again, and through the next two years individual assessments of almost 400 requirements were made. The results of this study contained an overview of Congressional Research Service findings, a list of the 700-plus reporting requirements related to foreign affairs, and a summary of the requirements—the first publication of this list since 1973. A list was also included of requirements found to be obsolete, duplicative, or of questioned utility. The committee print was entitled, "Required Reports to Congress on Foreign Policy".

(c) Parliamentary Exchanges.—During the 100th Congress Members of the committee and other Members of the Congress participated in numerous parliamentary exchanges throughout the world. Meetings were held between Members of Congress and the European Parliament, Interparliamentary Union, the Mexico-United States Interparliamentary Group, and the Canada-United States Interparliamentary Group. Committee prints detailing the results of these exchanges were published by the committee.

(d) Soviet Diplomacy and Negotiating Behavior—1979-88.—In August of 1988, the committee published a study entitled, "Soviet Diplomacy and Negotiating Behavior, 1979-88: New Tests for U.S. Diplomacy," prepared at the request of the committee by the Senior Specialists Section, Office of Research Coordination, Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress. This study was a continuation of a previous study by the Congressional Research Service published in 1979 entitled, "Soviet Diplomacy and Negotiating Behavior: Emerging New Context for U.S. Diplomacy."

The principal purpose of the study was to examine the style, purposes, and effects of Soviet behavior in diplomacy and negotiations in historical perspective, largely from the American point of view. Divided into six parts, the study identified basic questions to be addressed, provided some historical reflections on the evolution of diplomacy, and examined at length Soviet-American diplomacy and major negotiating encounters between the Vienna Summit in 1979 and the Gorbachev-Reagan Summit in Geneva in 1985. The growing role of Congress in Soviet diplomacy and negotiations received special attention in the study as a new development in Soviet foreign policy. The study concluded with implications for U.S. diplomacy in the context of present and future Soviet-American relations.

(e) Women's Perspectives on U.S. Foreign Policy.—From November 19–21, 1987, the National Women's Conference Committee sponsored three days of meetings in Washington, D.C. to mark the tenth anniversary of the first federally-funded National Women's Conference, and to assess the progress made since then. At the 1977 Conference recommendations were made that the President and the executive branch should intensify efforts to appoint more women to senior positions in foreign affairs; that the United States should support retaining and providing adequate funding for the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women; that the Agency for International Development and similar assistance agencies should give a high priority to implementing existing legislation and policies designed to promote the integration of women in development; and that the President should intensify efforts in the areas of human rights and nuclear disarmament.

The meetings in November of 1987 focused on progress made toward the implementation of the recommendations made in 1977, and offered a forum for women leaders who are expert in their fields of endeavor to present their view on a number of important policy issues. The results of the 1987 meetings were published by the committee as a committee print entitled, "Women's Perspectives on U.S. Foreign Policy: A Compilation of Views."

(f) United States Relations with Asia.—In February of 1987 the committee published the results of a staff study mission to review United States economic relations and economic development with Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong, China, Thailand, Singapore, and Indonesia. The principal purpose of the study mission was to assess bilateral trade and investment issues, but specifically the study focused on the issue of unfair trade practices. Asia was chosen for this study mission because the countries of Asia account for one-third of U.S. trade and for some of the largest U.S. bilateral trade deficits. The study mission found a great diversity in levels of economic development and in economic policies. The trade and foreign investment regimes of the seven countries visited vary widely from open, free enterprise economies to highly regulated, statist economies. The study mission also found that pressure from the United States, in the form of tougher executive branch implementation of U.S. trade policy coupled with the threat of more restrictive trade legislation, has helped to induce some countries in the region to reduce their protectionist and unfair trade practices. The committee print containing the findings of the study mission was published under the title, "U.S. Trade Relations with Asia."

(g) U.S. Narcotics Control Efforts in the Caribbean.—In the fall of 1987 staff of the committee travelled to the Caribbean to assess the effectiveness of U.S. narcotics control programs, the level of cooperation between the United States and host country agencies, update the committee's information on current developments affecting narcotics control efforts in the region, and identify possible areas for improvement. The study mission visited the Bahamas, the Turks and Caicos, the Dominican Republic, Curacao and Venezuela. The report of the study mission was printed as a committee print entitled, "U.S. Narcotics Control Efforts in the Caribbean."

(h) International Court of Justice.—In October of 1988, Abraham D. Sofaer, Legal Adviser at the Department of State, provided Members and staff of the committee with a classified briefing on his negotiations with Soviet officials to submit certain types of disputes between the United States and the Soviet Union to the International Court of Justice for adjudication. Also attending the briefing was the general counsel of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary.

(i) Task Force on Foreign Assistance.—At the beginning of the second session of the 100th Congress, the committee established a Task Force on Foreign Assistance, cochaired by Honorable Lee H. Hamilton and Honorable Benjamin A. Gilman, to undertake a comprehensive review of U.S. foreign assistance programs and policies. The Task Force commenced its activities by identifying specific issues to study and by sending letters to over 200 individuals and organizations inviting their assessment of U.S. foreign assistance. The staff of the Task Force, composed of members of the full committee staff plus two staff consultants detailed from the General Accounting Office and the Agency for International Development (AID), held extensive meetings with representatives from the executive branch (particularly AID and the Department of Defense) and with various non-governmental groups. The Task Force received various documents from the General Accounting Office and the Congressional Research Service. The Task Force also held eight meetings with Members and governmental and non-governmental experts to discuss issues related to U.S. foreign assistance programs. The Task Force expects to complete its review and report to the Congress early in the first session of the 101st Congress.

In connection with the review effort, the Congressional Research Service was asked to provide a summary and analyses of selected major studies and reports on foreign assistance. The task force wanted access to a compilation that would set force policy issues, problems and progress, suggested solutions, recommendations, and subsequent actions taken by the U.S. Government. This summary was published as a committee print entitled, "Foreign Assistance Policy Studies: A Review of Major Reports and Recommendations."

B. Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science

1. Hearings.

(a) Authorizations.—In the spring of 1987, the subcommittee conducted hearings to review the administration's worldwide conventional arms transfer policy and security assistance requests for fiscal years 1988 and 1989. Testimony was received from both the Under Secretary of State for Security Assistance, Science and Technology and the Director of the Defense Security Assistance Agency. Subcommittee recommendations resulting from this hearing were incorporated into the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1987. In June of 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to survey the administration's proposal for fiscal year 1988 and 1989 requests for the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency; subsequent to this hearing, recommendations made by the subcommittee were integrated into legislation acted upon by the full committee.

(b) Proposals to Amend the Arms Export Control Act.—The subcommittee held a hearing in March of 1987 on legislation to amend the Arms Export Control Act. The purpose of this legislation was to restore a proper balance between the executive and legislative branch on the issue of foreign arms transfers.

(c) Arms Control Issues.—During the 100th Congress, the subcommittee held numerous hearings on arms control issues. In January of 1987, a hearing was held by the subcommittee to examine the arms control proposals which were tabled by the U.S. and the Soviet Union in Reykjavik, Iceland in October of 1986. The administration's reinterpretation of the ABM Treaty was the subject of a hearing in February of 1987. In March of 1987, the subcommittee reviewed Soviet compliance with arms control agreements with witnesses from the Department of Defense, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and private experts. The status and overall direction of U.S. arms control policy was the subject of hearings in July and October of 1987.

In 1988, the subcommittee met in June to review U.S. arms control policies with respect to nuclear weapons testing. The hearing focused on the administration's views on nuclear testing negotiations, and on the findings of the Office of Technology Assessment in its report on seismic verification of nuclear weapons testing.

(d) Arms Sales.—In May of 1987, the subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere Affairs to consider legislation to prohibit the sale of F5-E/F aircraft to Honduras. Testimony was heard from representatives of the Department of State, the U.S. Southern Command and private military experts. A joint hearing with the Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East was held in May of 1988, to examine the administration's proposed arms sales package to Saudi Arabia; and again in July of 1988, a joint hearing was held to review a proposed sale of F-18 fighter aircraft to Kuwait. The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs in June of 1988 to survey the proposed sale of the AEGIS naval air defense system to Japan. Finally, in September of 1988, the subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittees on Asian and Pacific Affairs and on International Economic Policy and Trade to examine the administration's proposed sale of U.S. commercial satellites for launch on board the People's Republic of China's Long March Missiles. This hearing focused on U.S. negotiations with the Chinese on issues of technology transfer, pricing, and assurance liability. In addition, the hearing assessed the impact of the administration's proposal on the U.S. domestic commercial launch vehicle industry.

(e) Persian Gulf Situation.—Joint hearings were held with the Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East in June and December of 1987 on the situation in the Persian Gulf. In addition to surveying the administration's decision to reflag and escort Kuwait oil tankers through the Persian Gulf, the hearings focused on the long-term aspects of U.S. policies toward the Persian Gulf region, cooperative efforts between the United States and its allies in carrying out these policies and U.S. efforts to bring the Iran-Iraq war to a negotiated end.

(f) Countertrade Offsets in International Trade.—In June and July of 1987 the subcommittee held joint hearings with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade on the subject of countertrade offsets in international trade. Testimony was received from Members of Congress, the Department of Agriculture, the General Accounting Office, and private trade experts.

(g) European Security and New Conventional Technologies.—The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East in July of 1987 to focus on the overall aspects of European security, the applicability of new conventional weapons technologies available to the United States and its NATO allies, and the implications of a new agreement on Intermediate-Range Nuclear forces.

(h) Nuclear Nonproliferation Policy.—In October of 1987, the subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittees on Asian and Pacific Affairs and on International Economic Policy and Trade on U.S.-Pakistan nuclear nonproliferation policy.

(i) Biological Research Testing.—The subcommittee met in joint session with the Subcommittee on Energy and the Environment of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs and the Subcommittee on Military Installations and Facilities of the Committee on Armed Services in May of 1988 to examine the U.S. biological research testing program. This hearing focused on the Army's plan to upgrade the biological research testing facility at Dugway, Utah, and the safety, environmental, and arms control aspects of the U.S. biological research testing program.

(j) Oversight of the Office of Munitions Control.—In July of 1988, the subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade to review the operations of the Office of Munitions Control. Testimony focused on the day-to-day operations and the management of the licensing processes at the Office of Munitions Control, and various proposals to make operations more efficient, while at the same time, preserving the integrity of the Office's oversight of commercial conventional arms sales worldwide.

(k) War Powers.—The subcommittee conducted hearings in July and September of 1988 on the War Powers Resolution. These hearings were conducted in the wake of U.S. naval escort operations and military deployments in the Persian Gulf, and concentrated on the utility, applicability, and vitality of the War Powers Resolution since its enactment in 1973.

2. Other Activities

(a) Briefings—The Members and staff of the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science conducted continuous briefings, both in open and closed sessions, throughout the 100th Congress on topics under their jurisdiction, including: (1) the Geneva Arms Talks; (2) INF verification; (3) nuclear testing; (4) Soviet and ABM Treaty compliance; (5) Anti-Satellite (ASAT) Weapons Testing; (6) Soviet Missile Test near Hawaii; (7) cooperation in space; (8) situation in the Persian Gulf; (9) the military balance in the Middle East; (10) chemical weapons; (11) Arms Control and Disarmament Agency security; (12) the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI); (13) the AEGIS naval defense system; (14) U.S.-Japan Nuclear Cooperation Agreement; (15) Black Sea incident; (16) M-1 coproduction agreement; (17) sale of Chinese ballistic missiles to Saudi Arabia; (18) sale of nuclear powered submarines to Canada; (19) emergency assistance to Jamaica; (20) the situation in Yugoslavia.

(b) Studies and Reports:

(i) The Reagan-Gorbachev Iceland Summit.—Subcommittee staff assessed the overall arms control impact of the Reagan-Gorbachev summit meeting which occurred in October of 1987. In a subcommittee report entitled, "The Reykjavik Talks: Promise and Peril," the arms control issues associated with the summit were discussed in an authoritative and comprehensive manner.

(ii) Soviet Views Toward Verification of Arms Control.—In May of 1987 the subcommittee published a committee print entitled, "Verifying Arms Control Agreement: The Soviet View." This study prepared by the Congressional Research Service contained a detailed analysis of Soviet attitudes and policies toward the verification of arms control agreements.

(iii) Chemical Warfare Policy.—In June of 1987, the subcommittee published in the Congressional Record a report from the General Accounting Office analyzing the inherent deficiencies of the "Bigeye" bomb operational test plan and evaluation program.

(iv) NATO's Defense Capabilities.—The report of the Office of Technology Assessment's analysis of NATO's new Follow-on Forces Attack (FOFA) concept was published by the subcommittee as a committee print in June of 1987. This report entitled, "Implementing Follow-on Forces Attack," analyzed the relevance of FOFA to the conventional threat assessment in Central Europe, the possible responses of the Soviets and the Warsaw pact to FOFA, and the operational concepts of FOFA.

(v) War Powers Resolution.—In May of 1988, the subcommittee published a committee print entitled, "War Powers Resolution: Relevant Documents, Correspondence, and Reports." This print was an updated version of an earlier compilation.

(vi) Additional Studies.—The subcommittee released a major Office of Technology Assessment study on nuclear testing in May of 1988; and in August and November of 1988, two General Accounting Office reports on Arms Control and Disarmament Agency security policies, practices and procedures were released.

(c) Study Missions.—In February of 1987, subcommittee staff visited Patrick Air Force Base, Florida to receive closed briefings from the Air Force Technical Applications Center on the Center's role in monitoring and verifying arms control agreement. Staff of the subcommittee participated in a closed conference on "Arms Control Verification Technologies" sponsored by the Department of Energy in April of 1987. In September of 1987, subcommittee staff visited Fort Bragg, North Carolina to receive an overview briefing of U.S. special operations capabilities, and in October staff visited MacDill Air Force Base in Florida to receive an overview briefing on U.S. military activities in the Persian Gulf. Subcommittee staff visited France, Belgium, Great Britain, Austria, the Federal Republic of Germany, and the Soviet Union in January of 1988 to examine the implications of the INF Treaty on NATO security policies in the 1990's. In March of 1988, subcommittee and committee staff traveled to the U.S. Space Command in Colorado Springs, Colorado to attend a conference to review the implications of U.S. national security activities in space. Finally, in December of 1988, subcommittee staff visited Korea and Japan to examine U.S. arms control and national security interests in Northeast Asia.

C. Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East

1. Hearings

(a) Authorizations.—In February and March 1987, during the first session of the 100th Congress, the subcommittee held six days of hearings on the Administration's economic, military and food assistance requests for Fiscal Years 1988 and 1989 for countries and programs under the subcommittee's jurisdiction.

The Departments of State and Defense, and the Agency for International Development (AID), opened the foreign assistance hearings before the subcommittee with a hearing on foreign assistance requests for Spain and Portugal.

Other separate hearings scrutinized assistance programs for: Jordan, Lebanon, Yemen, Oman, American Schools and Hospitals Abroad, Middle East Regional Programs, West Bank and Gaza, Egypt, Israel, Greece, Turkey, Cyprus, Ireland and Northern Ireland. Witnesses from the various agencies testified in these hearings in support of the proposed programs. In addition, one day of hearings was devoted to receiving testimony on various economic and military assistance requests from public witnesses.

During the 100th Congress, the subcommittee performed ongoing oversight of these programs under its jurisdiction which represent the bulk of all assistance programs and total well over $6 billion annually. The subcommittee also examined political, economic and security developments in those nations in Europe and the Middle East receiving assistance.

(b) Europe:

(i) U.S. Policy.—During the 100th Congress, in fulfillment of its oversight responsibilities, the subcommittee held a series of hearings to review recent developments in Europe. Testimony was heard from the Honorable Rozanne L. Ridgway, Assistant Secretary for European and Canadian Affairs, Department of State. These hearings focused on: the state of U.S.-Soviet relations and the status of arms control negotiations; internal developments within the Soviet Union; Gorbachev's economic reform proposals; the impact of the Iran controversy on U.S. relations with its allies in Europe; allied cooperation in the Persian Gulf; U.S. bilateral relations with base rights countries—Spain, Portugal, Greece and Turkey; the status of base access agreements; the situation in Cyprus; NATO issues; U.S.-EC trade issues; the implications for the United States of the EC moves toward a single market economy in 1992; prospects for an INF agreement, and a Reagan-Gorbachev summit; U.S. relations with Eastern European countries; and European cooperation against international terrorism.

(ii) Western Europe:

(a) The Venice Economic Summit.—On June 3, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade, held a joint hearing on the Venice Economic Summit. The purpose of the hearing was to assess U.S. priorities for the thirteenth annual economic summit of Western industrialized nations. Testimony was received from the Honorable Alan Wallis, Under Secretary of State for Economic Affairs.

(b) European Economic Community.—On June 8, 1987, the subcommittee held an informal meeting in San Francisco, California, chaired by the Honorable Tom Lantos, to examine legislation that would authorize the granting of diplomatic and consular privileges and immunities to offices of the Commission of the European Communities which are established in the United States. Related provisions of this legislation were adopted as an amendment during House consideration of the Fiscal Year 1988 State Department Authorization Bill.

The meeting focused on the merits of establishing an EC Office on the West Coast which would assist the EC Commission in gaining a more complete knowledge and understanding of the United States and help contribute to better policy making. The legislation would further help the EC Commission to reach new audiences in the United States with information and views about the progress of European integration and its relevance for the United States and especially American business. Testimony was heard from various businessmen in the San Francisco Bay area and officials of the California Office on Foreign Trade, the San Francisco Chambers of Commerce and the World Affairs Council of San Francisco.

(iii) Western European Security Issues:

(a) Europe Roundtable Discussion.—On December 2, 1987, the subcommittee held an informal roundtable discussion on U.S. policy toward Europe. The discussion focused on the challenges the United States-European relations emerging from the conclusion of a United States-Soviet INF agreement; problems facing the Atlantic Alliance, European efforts at defense cooperation and the implications of closer European cooperation in this area for the United States, and European confidence in U.S. leadership.

(b) NATO and European Security.—On Wednesday, July 22, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, held a joint hearing to examine European security issues in light of the Administration's double-zero proposal for dismantling intermediate nuclear missiles in Europe. The hearing also focused on the President's SDI policy, new technologies for NATO and alliance conventional defense issues.

(iv) Eastern Europe:

(a) Most-Favored-Nation Status for Romania.—On July 30, 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to review the President's determination of June 2, 1987 to extend the policy of Most-Favored-Nation (MFN) trade status for Romania, U.S.-Romanian bilateral issues, and the human rights situation in Romania. Testimony was heard from the Honorable Rozanne L. Ridgway, Assistant Secretary of State for European and Canadian Affairs.

(b) United States-East European Trade.—On October 28, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade, held a joint hearing on U.S. trade with Eastern Europe. The hearing focused on opportunities for increased U.S. trade with Eastern Europe, problems encountered by the U.S. in improving trade ties with those countries and steps being taken to alleviate those problems.

(iv) The Soviet Union:

(a) Soviet Economic Reforms.—On July 14, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade, held a joint hearing on Soviet economic and political reforms and the impact of those reforms for improved U.S.-Soviet trade relations.

(b) United States-Soviet Trade.—On September 22, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade, continued their joint hearings, on U.S.-Soviet trade issues. This hearing examined the potential for trade opportunities between the United States and Soviet Union in light of the improved relations between the two countries. Testimony was heard from Mr. Dwayne Andreas, Chairman of the Board of the Archer Daniels Midlands Corporation.

(c) United States-Soviet Relations (Private Witnesses).—In February, March, April, May, June, and July, 1988, the subcommittee held a series of hearings on change in the Soviet Union and its implications for U.S.-Soviet relations and United States policy toward the Soviet Union. These hearings were intended to help Congress understand the developments that are taking place in the Soviet Union under General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev.

In the first 11 hearings, testimony was heard from 33 private witnesses. These hearings include the following subjects:

(i) Political and Social Change.—On February 2, 1988, the subcommittee held the first hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on political and social change.

(ii) Soviet Economic Reforms.—On February 8, 1988, the subcommittee held the second hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on economic change in the Soviet Union under General Secretary Gorbachev.

(iii) Nationality Issue.—On February 25, 1988, the subcommittee held the third hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on the upsurge of nationality issues in various republics of the U.S.S.R. under General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev and the implications for U.S. policy.

(iv) Changes in Soviet Society.—On March 17, 1988, the subcommittee held the fourth hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on civil society in the Soviet Union; specifically how it treats its citizens, and changes in the Soviet legal system under General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev's reforms.

(v) Changes in Soviet Society and Cultural Life.—On March 28, 1988, the subcommittee held the fifth hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on changes in Soviet society and cultural life, including health, housing and education.

(vi) Science and Technology.—On April 13, 1988, the subcommittee held the sixth hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on U.S.-Soviet scientific exchanges, problems of Soviet science, and implications of computer use for Soviet society.

(vii) Trade and Joint Ventures.—On April 20, 1988, the subcommittee held the seventh hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on the Soviet Union's plans for improving its economy and prospects for expanded trade and joint ventures between the United States and the Soviet Union.

(viii) Impact of Reform on the Military and Defense Spending.—On April 27, 1988, the subcommittee held the eighth hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on Soviet defense policy, civil-military relations and the influence of economic reform on defense spending.

(ix) Policy Toward Eastern Europe.—On May 5, 1988, the subcommittee held the ninth hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on the effect of reform on Soviet relations with Eastern Europe, and the implications for the United States.

(x) Soviet Foreign Policy.—On May 11, 1988, the subcommittee held the tenth hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on changes in Soviet foreign policy in general and, specifically, with respect to Western Europe and the Middle East.

(xi) Options for U.S. Policy.—On May 12, 1988, the subcommittee held the 11th hearing in its series on United States-Soviet relations. This hearing focused on U.S. responses to recent changes in Soviet foreign policy.

(xii) United States-Soviet Relations (Executive Branch Witnesses).—The last four hearings were held with Executive Branch witnesses. The witnesses included: the Honorable Charles Z. Wick, Director, U.S. Information Agency; the Honorable Rozanne L. Ridgway, Assistant Secretary for European and Canadian Affairs, Department of State; the Honorable Ronald Lehman, Assistant Secretary for International Security Policy, Department of Defense, and the Honorable Franklin J. Vargo, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Europe, Department of Commerce. These last four hearings focused on General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev's reforms and foreign policy and their implications for U.S. policy.

(c) The Middle East:

(i) General Policy:

(a) Recent Developments.—During the 100th Congress, in fulfillment of its oversight responsibilities, the subcommittee held a series of hearings to review recent developments in the Middle East. Testimony was heard from the Honorable Richard W. Murphy, Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs, Department of State. These hearings focused on: Status of efforts to restart the peace process; U.S. bilateral relations with Egypt and Israel; the economic situation in Egypt; the 1988 Israeli elections; the status of U.S. sanctions against Syria; the Israeli decision to cancel the Lavi fighter aircraft; the continued violence on the West Bank and in Gaza, and trends in the uprising; the politics of the PLO and the 1988 Palestinian National Committee meetings; the political situation in Lebanon and the prospects for presidential elections; U.S. policy regarding the nine American hostages in Lebanon; the tragic downing in 1988 of the Iran Air Flight 655 en route from Bandar Abbas in Iran to Dubai in the United Arab Emirates; U.S. relations with Iran; the Iran-Iraq war and negotiations to end the war; U.S. policies in the Persian Gulf; the re-flagging of Kuwaiti tankers; assistance provided by the Gulf States and European allies to help promote shipping in the Persian Gulf; Iraq's use of chemical weapons against its Kurdish population; U.N. diplomatic efforts to end the Iran-Iraq war, including implementation of U.N. Res. 598; status of U.N. ceasefire negotiations between Iran and Iraq; proposed arms sales to the Persian Gulf countries, including the F-18 sale to Kuwait; and the proliferation of missiles in the Middle East region.

(b) Cash Transfer for Egypt.—On December 10, 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to examine AID policy on the use of Economic Support Fund (ESF) monies provided as cash transfers. The hearing focused on a decision made by the Agency for International Development (AID), to permit an ESF fund cash transfer of $115 million to be used by Egypt to make payments on Foreign Military Sales (FMS) loans from the United States. The hearing was a case study on the use of the cash transfer by Egypt and the legal issues raised by this action in light of Section 531(e) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 as amended. The hearing further examined the evolution of AID policy on the use of cash transfer in Egypt since 1984 and current policies on cash transfers.

(c) U.S. Policy in the West Bank and Gaza.—On December 14, 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to examine U.S. policy toward the Occupied Territories of the West Bank and Gaza and toward the Palestinians living there. Although U.S. policy toward the Occupied Territories was covered in the subcommittee's Fiscal Year 1988 foreign assistance hearings and in hearings on recent developments in the Middle East, recent events, including the start in December 1987 of a new cycle of violence, warranted a more thorough policy review.

(ii) The Persian Gulf:

(a) Saudi Arabia.—On June 15, 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to examine problems confronting U.S. businessmen in Saudi Arabia and Saudi treatment of U.S. citizens residing in Saudi Arabia. Testimony was heard from several private witnesses who had experienced difficulties with, or who had been imprisoned by, the Saudi government while residing and doing business in that country.

(b) Protection of International Shipping in the Persian Gulf.—On May 19, 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to examine the U.S. proposal to re-flag Kuwaiti tankers in the Persian Gulf and the ramifications of this policy for the United States. The hearing also focused on the May 17, 1987 Iraqi attack on the U.S.S. Stark.

(c) Reflagging of Kuwaiti Tankers.—On June 23, 1987, the subcommittee together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, held a joint hearing on U.S. policy in the Persian Gulf and on the U.S. decision to provide U.S. flag protection to Kuwaiti tankers. Testimony was heard from Representatives of Congress who included: the Honorable Charles Bennett from the State of Florida, the Honorable Henry Gonzalez from the State of Texas, the Honorable Tom Lantos from the State of California, and the Honorable Thomas J. Downey from the State of New York. These Members had sponsored or co-sponsored various legislative initiatives that had been introduced concerning the U.S. re-flagging policy and U.S. presence in the Gulf.

(d) U.S. Policy in the Persian Gulf.—On December 15, 1987, the subcommittee together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, held a joint hearing to continue their scrutiny and oversight of U.S. policy in the Persian Gulf. The hearing focused on political and military developments in the Gulf, European and Gulf Coordination Council states' assistance and cooperation; and diplomatic efforts to end the Iran-Iraq war.

(d) Arms Sales:

(i) Saudi Arabia.—On May 10, 1988, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, held a joint hearing to review the Administration's proposed arms sales to Saudi Arabia. Congress was notified on April 27, 1988 of two proposed arms sales which included: (1) Proposed $325 million sale of contractor maintenance, ground training of air crews and technicians and augmentation of base and headquarters staffs in support of the AWACS and KE-3 aerial refueling tanker aircraft previously purchased from the United States; and (2) Proposed $500 million sale of 200 Bradley M-2 infantry fighting vehicles with individual and crew served weapons to include 4,460 TOW II and 25 mm automatic cannon.

In addition to these sales, the subcommittees focused on: Saudi purchase of intermediate-range ballistic missiles from the People's Republic of China; the continued nature of the Iran/Iraq war; the continued U.S. military presence in the Persian Gulf; and the recent changes that have occurred in United States Rules of Engagement in the Persian Gulf.

(ii) Kuwait.—On July 7, 1988, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, held a joint hearing to review the Administration's proposed $1.9 billion arms sales to Kuwait of 40 F-18 aircraft, weapons systems and support services. On the morning of the hearing, Congress was presented with the formal notification of such a sale. In addition to this sale, the subcommittee also focused on: the implications of all arms sales to the Persian Gulf on the military balance in the region; United States policy in the Persian Gulf and toward Kuwait; and the tragic downing of the Iran Air Flight 655 en route from Bandar Abbas in Iran to Dubai in the United Arab Emirates.

2. Other Activities

(a) Briefings with the Department of State.—On a regular basis, when Congress was in session, the subcommittee held informal, off-the-record briefings on foreign policy issues relating to U.S. policies in Europe and the Middle East. The briefings were given primarily by officials from the Department of State and occasionally by the Department of Defense and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Topics of discussion included: Developments in Europe; developments in the Middle East, including efforts to restart the peace process; prospective arms sales to the Middle East; the lifting of U.S. sanctions against Poland; U.S. relations with Eastern Europe; U.S.-Yugoslavia relations; protection of international shipping in the Persian Gulf; proposed arms sales to the Persian Gulf countries; the Arab-Israeli military balance; proposed arms sales to Saudi Arabia; the economic aid program in Egypt; U.S. relations with Poland, Bulgaria, and Czechoslovakia; the Shultz-Shevardnadze ministerial meetings; U.S. base negotiations with Spain; U.S. base negotiations with Greece; the situation on Cyprus and the status of the UN draft framework agreement for a resolution of the Cyprus conflict; problems dealing with international terrorism in the region; UN diplomatic efforts to end the Iran-Iraq war; and the U.S. presence in the Persian Gulf and cooperation from the Gulf Coordination Council states and European allies.

In the context of these meetings, the subcommittee also met with several U.S. Ambassadors serving overseas.

(b) Briefings with the Department of Defense.—In addition to the numerous briefings mentioned above, the subcommittee held several other informal closed briefings with the Defense Department:

(i) On March 30, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, met with representatives of the Department of State and Defense to discuss problems relating to the protection of international shipping in the Persian Gulf.

(ii) On April 8, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, met with representatives of the Departments of State and Defense to discuss the sale of anti-tank shells containing a depleted uranium penetrator component.

(iii) On July 1, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control International Security and Science, met with representatives from the Department of Defense and Joint Chiefs of Staff to discuss the prospects for U.S.-Egyptian co-production of the M-1 tank.

(iv) On July 21, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, met with representatives from the Department of State and Defense, and the Defense Intelligence Agency to discuss the Arab-Israeli military balance.

(v) On September 23, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, met with representatives from the Departments of State and Defense and the Defense Intelligence Agency to discuss military and political developments in the Persian Gulf.

(vi) On October 21, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, met with representatives from the Department of Defense and Defense Intelligence Agency to discuss the situation in the Persian Gulf.

(vii) On March 8, 1988, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, met with representatives from the Departments of State and Defense to discuss the proposed M-1 Tank Co-Production Agreement with Egypt.

(viii) On October 11, 1988, the subcommittee met with representatives from the Departments of State and Defense to discuss the recently concluded U.S.-Spanish base rights agreement and the status of other U.S. base talks in Southern Europe.

(c) Other Briefings:

(i) On November 10, 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, met with representatives from the Central Intelligence Agency to discuss the situation in the Persian Gulf.

(ii) On March 22, 1988, the subcommittee met with representatives from the Central Intelligence Agency to discuss the situation in the West Bank and Gaza and the Chinese arms sales.

(iii) On June 23, 1988, the subcommittee met with representatives from the Central Intelligence Agency to discuss General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev's reforms and domestic issues in the Soviet Union on the eve of the June Party Conference.

(iv) On October 6, 1988, the subcommittee met with representatives from the Central Intelligence Agency to discuss the implications of a special meeting of the Soviet Special Committee.

(v) The subcommittee staff held numerous meetings during the 100th Congress with prominent American groups on foreign policy issues relating to U.S. policies in Europe and the Middle East.

(d) CRS Studies:

(i) Poland and the United States.—This study, prepared by the Congressional Research Service, Library of Congress, analyzes the present state of United States-Polish relations, provides a detailed historical background of the economic and political crisis in Poland beginning in 1970 and details the course of United States-Polish relations during this period. The study also outlines the prospects for a possible reengagement of the United States and the international financial community in an effort to provide for the recovery of the Polish economy.

The study entitled "Poland's Renewal and U.S. Options: A Policy Reconnaissance" was published in March, 1987.

(ii) NATO.—This study, prepared by the Foreign Affairs and National Defense Division of the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress, analyses the level of consensus behind present NATO policies for the defense of Alliance members. The study further examines the defense policy debate in the U.S., as well as in the Federal Republic of Germany, Britain, Norway, and Denmark, where ongoing discussions of NATO policy have attracted special attention.

The study entitled "Challenges to NATO's Consensus: West European Attitudes and U.S. Policy" was published in May, 1987.

(e) GAO Studies:

In furtherance of both his legislative and oversight responsibilities, the chairman of the subcommittee requested the General Accounting Office to prepare the following studies which would be of interest to the subcommittee:

*(i) Foreign Aid.—Potential for Diversion of Economic Support Funds to Unauthorized Use—*This unclassified report reviews the Economic Support Fund programs to determine if any of these funds had been diverted to military use and whether controls placed over these programs leave open the possibility for diversions to unauthorized purposes, including military use. The report was issued to the subcommittee in January, 1987.

*(ii) Foreign Assistance.—Analysis of Cost Estimates for Israel's Lavi Aircraft—*This unclassified report evaluates United States and Israeli cost estimates for Israel's Lavi fighter aircraft. The report was issued to the subcommittee in January, 1987.

*(iii) U.S. Cash Transfers.—*This classified report reviews the use of U.S. cash transfer funds by Egypt to promote economic policy reform. The report was issued to the subcommittee in September, 1987. Because of its classification, the report was not published but it is retained in subcommittee files.

*(iv) NATO.—U.S. Contributions to the Airborne Early Warning and Control Program—*This unclassified report reviews the financial controls over U.S. contributions to the NATO Airborne Early Warning and Control Program and whether U.S. performance was consistent with the Multilateral Memorandum of Understanding and with U.S. laws and regulations covering contributions to such multilateral efforts. The report was issued to the subcommittee in April, 1988.

*(v) Foreign Aid.—Improving the Impact and Control of Economic Support Funds—*This unclassified report reviews selected ESF programs to determine how these programs might achieve greater development impact. The report was issued to the subcommittee in June, 1988.

*(vi) Foreign Aid.—Better Management of Commodity Import Programs Could Improve Development Impact—*This unclassified report reviews selected Commodity Import Programs administered by the Agency for International Development (AID) to determine how these programs might achieve greater development impact. It also evaluates the consistency of the programs with AID development strategies, AID monitoring of local currency funds, and the adequacy of program controls in accounting for commodity arrivals, distribution, and end use. The report was issued to the subcommittee in September, 1988.

*(vii) AWACS in Saudi Arabia.—Status of U.S. Deployment and Sale to the Kingdom—*This unclassified report reviews the status and cost of the U.S. Airborne Warning and Control System aircraft deployment to Saudi Arabia. The report was issued to the subcommittee in October, 1988. Because of its classification, the report was not published but it is retained in subcommittee files.

*(viii) Military Assistance.—Improving the Way Congress is Notified of Program Changes—*This unclassified report examines and compares the Agency for International Development (AID) and Department of Defense (DOD) congressional notification procedures for reprogramming foreign assistance funds. The report was issued to the subcommittee in November, 1988.

(f) Study Missions:

(i) Southern Europe.—In October 1986, subcommittee staff participated in a study mission to southern Europe. The purpose of the study mission was to gather information on political-military issues, questions of U.S. access to military facilities, and the U.S. economic and military assistance program in NATO's southern region. The study mission visited Portugal, Spain, Greece and Turkey.

The report of the staff study mission was printed in June 1987 under the title, "United States Political-Military Relations with Allies in Southern Europe".

(ii) The Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland.—In November, 1988, the subcommittee staff participated in a study mission to the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland. The purpose of the study mission was to examine the operation of the International Fund for Ireland and Northern Ireland, created in 1985 as part of the Anglo-Irish Accord. The U.S. has contributed $120 million to the Fund since 1985. Additional appropriations will be under subcommittee consideration for Fiscal Year 1990.

The subcommittee staff expect to present a report in early 1989.

(iii) Jordan, Israel, the West Bank and Gaza, and Cyprus.—In November, 1988, the subcommittee staff participated in a study mission to Jordan, Israel, the West Bank and Gaza, and Cyprus. The purpose of the study mission was to review United States economic and security programs.

The subcommittee staff expect to present a report in early 1989.

D. Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations

1. Hearings

(a) U.S. Human Rights Policy.—In February of 1987, the subcommittee met to examine the current U.S. policy in the area of human rights, the country reports on human rights practices for 1986, the implementation of U.S. human rights laws, and U.S. participation in the United Nations Commission on Human Rights. Again in February of 1988, the subcommittee met to review current events with respect to U.S. human rights policy.

(b) Foreign Assistance.—The subcommittee met in February of 1987 to review voluntary contributions for international organizations and programs for fiscal years 1988 and 1989. In March of 1987, the subcommittee specifically reviewed the Agency for International Development's Child Survival Fund request, a recommended funding increase for UNICEF and the United Nations Development Program.

(c) Human Rights.—During the 100th Congress, the subcommittee held continuous hearings, many in conjunction with other subcommittees, to study human rights situations in various areas of the world. Specific countries focused on during these hearings included, Afghanistan, Romania, Ethiopia, El Salvador, Tibet, Chile, the Soviet Union, Iran, Malaysia, Singapore, the Caribbean, the West Bank and Gaza Strip, and Burundi.

(d) U.S. Participation in International Negotiations on the Ozone Protocol.—In March of 1987, the subcommittee met to review U.S. participation in the Ozone Protocol following the international negotiations on Convention on the Ozone, which was concluded in Vienna, Austria in February of 1987. The hearing focused on the major issues involved in the negotiations, such as the scope of the agreement, stringency and timing of control measures, differences among our allies, the demands of developing countries, and trade implications.

(e) Assessing the Prospects for Democratization in Korea.—In May of 1987, the subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs to survey the prospects for elections and democratization in South Korea.

(f) Review of the United Nations Code of Conduct for Transnational Corporations.—The subcommittee held a hearing in May 1987 to scrutinize the negotiations on the United Nations Code of Conduct for Transnational Corporations. The hearing focused on the key issues which remained to be resolved in the negotiations, including a reference to international law/international obligations, non-interference in internal political affairs, jurisdiction and dispute settlement, nationalization and compensation, and national treatment of transnational corporations.

(g) International Workers' Rights.—The subcommittee met in June of 1987 to examine the enforcement of American law with respect to internationally-recognized worker rights. The hearing concentrated on the application of existing legislation, including removal of several nations from the list of countries eligible to receive benefits from the Generalized System of Preferences.

(h) Recent Developments in the United Nations System.—In February, May, and December of 1988, the subcommittee held joint hearings with the Subcommittee on International Operations to examine recent developments in the United Nations, including the fiscal situation, progress in negotiating the Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan, and the status of U.S. hostages in Lebanon.

(i) Palau Compact.—The subcommittee met jointly in March of 1988 with the Subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs to review legislation to authorize the entry into force of the Compact of Free Association between the United States and Palau. During the hearing, the subcommittees heard representatives of the Department of State report on developments in Palau, particularly concerning the the violent intimidation of Compact opponents.

(j) Global Climate Change: Greenhouse Effect.—In March of 1988, the subcommittee held a hearing to receive testimony regarding the Greenhouse Effect, and its possible catastrophic effects on the planet Earth. Witnesses included representatives of the Department of State, the Agency for International Development, and the Environmental Protection Agency.

(k) The Torture Victim Protection Act.—The subcommittee met in March of 1988, to survey legislation designed to provide a legal mechanism to combat the practice of torture. The proposed legislation would allow victims of torture, or their representatives, residing in the U.S. to bring a civil action in Federal Court against the torturer. Any individual, who under authority of any foreign nation, subjects another to torture or extrajudicial killing would be liable.

(l) Update on Foreign Agent Harassment of People in the United States.—In April of 1988, the subcommittee conducted a closed hearing on foreign agent harassment of individuals in the United States.

(m) Oversight of the United States and Soviet Union Fisheries Agreement.—The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade in June of 1988, to review the recent U.S.-Soviet Fisheries Agreement, which would supersede the Governing International Fisheries Agreement.

(n) Review of Rate Setting Process of International Postal Rates.—In July of 1988, the subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Postal Operations and Services of the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service to examine the rate setting process of international postal rates.

(o) International Child Abduction.—In September of 1988, the subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittee on International Operations to focus on international child abduction. Hundreds of Americans are denied the opportunity to raise, to sometimes even see, their own children, even though they have been granted custody of the children by U.S. courts. The 1984 Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction establishes uniform rules to be applied in cases of international child abduction.

2. Other Activities

(a) Briefings.—During the 100th Congress, the subcommittee held periodic briefings on various topics under the jurisdiction of the subcommittee, including: (1) AID's budget for the environment and natural resources; (2) the situation in Suriname; (3) human rights in Afghanistan; (4) the International Whaling Commission; (5) the United Nations Environment Programs; (6) the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES); (7) the situation in Poland; (8) the U.S.-Japan Nuclear Cooperation Agreement; (9) a Presidential Determination releasing payment to the United Nations; (10) the situation in Burma; (11) food and refugee emergencies in Sudan and East Africa.

E. Subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs

1. Hearings

(a) Developments in the People's Republic of China.—In February of 1987, the subcommittee met to review several political developments in the People's Republic of China. Specifically, the hearing focused on the implications of the wave of student demonstrations which had occurred in a number of cities throughout China, and the dismissal of Hu Yaobang from his position as the General Secretary of the Communist party.

(b) Foreign Assistance Authorizations.—The subcommittee held a series of eight hearings in the spring of 1987 to discuss the administration's economic and security assistance requests for the nations in the Asian and Pacific region of the world. Recommendations made by the subcommittee subsequent to these hearings were incorporated into legislation considered by the full committee.

(c) United States-Japan Relations.—In April and May of 1987, the subcommittee met in conjunction with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade to concentrate on the growing economic tensions between Japan and the United States. The subcommittees continued these hearings in September and October of 1988. During this second set of hearings the subcommittees examined the causes of the U.S. bilateral trade deficit with Japan, and possible methods to reduce that deficit, evaluated the progress the Administration has had in negotiating market openings in Japan on a sector-by-sector basis, and focused on cooperation between the two countries in the areas of defense and foreign aid.

(d) Korea.—The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations in May of 1987, to assess the prospects for democracy in Korea. In June of 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to focus on recent political developments in Korea, specifically to review the agreement by the Korean Government to hold direct presidential elections in that country in the wake of President Chun's decision to step down from office. The subcommittee held a hearing in September of 1987, to receive an update on the status of the electoral process since the June agreement to hold direct presidential elections. Finally in December of 1987, the subcommittee met to assess the Korean election results and to determine the veracity of allegations made by the opposition candidates that election fraud was widespread.

In February of 1988, the subcommittee again focused on Korea by holding a hearing to conduct an in-depth examination of the bombing of Korean airline flight 858 on November 29, 1987. Specifically, the subcommittee reviewed evidence implicating the North Korean Government in the act. The subcommittee met in May of 1988, to examine the issue of Korean reunification and review recent proposals to initiate greater North-South contact.

(e) The Philippines.—During the 100th Congress, the subcommittee met extensively to keep abreast of events in the Philippines. Beginning in May of 1987, the subcommittee conducted an oversight hearing to assess the implications of the recently held Congressional elections in the Philippines. In July of 1987, the subcommittee began a series of hearings to investigate the alleged plans of the former president of the Philippines, Ferdinand Marcos, to invade the Philippines in an effort to regain power in that country. Tape recordings of conversations with Mr. Marcos regarding these plans were played at the hearing. The subcommittee held a hearing in September of 1987, to review the details of the August 28, 1987, coup attempt in the Philippines. The subcommittee reviewed possible causes underlying the attempted coup, and discussed the prognosis for the future stability of that country. Finally, in December of 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to review the situation in the Philippines since the abortive coup attempt at the end of August.

During 1988, the subcommittee held four closed hearings to conduct an investigation pertaining to the Philippines.

(f) Pakistan.—In May and June of 1987, the subcommittee held hearings on the proposed sale of an Airborne Early Warning

System to Pakistan. The subcommittee held a hearing in conjunction with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade in July of 1987, to discuss the possibility of Pakistan's illegal nuclear procurement from the United States. In October of 1987, the subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade to examine the questions for U.S. nonproliferation policy raised by the increasing evidence that Pakistan is moving toward acquiring a nuclear weapons capability.

The subcommittee met in February of 1988, jointly with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade to examine Pakistan's attempt to illegally ship materials that could be used to manufacture a nuclear device. Finally, in June of 1988, the subcommittee held a hearing to review the political ramifications of Pakistan President Zia ul-Haq's decision to dismiss Prime Minister Junejo and dissolve the National Assembly, and his subsequent decision to call for elections.

(g) South Pacific Nuclear Free Zone.—In June of 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to discuss whether the United States should become a signatory to the protocols of the South Pacific Nuclear Free Zone Treaty. In addition, the subcommittee considered proposed legislation calling on the United States to sign the protocols.

(h) The Indo-Sri-Lankan Accord.—The subcommittee held an oversight hearing in August of 1987, to review the accord reached between Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi and Sri Lankan President Jayewardene to resolve the ethnic conflict on Sri Lanka involving the Tamil community.

(i) Elimination of Security Assistance for New Zealand.—In September of 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing to review legislation which would eliminate security assistance and arms export preferences for New Zealand that were provided by the U.S. because of New Zealand's status as a military ally. In light of New Zealand's refusal to allow port entry to U.S. ships carrying nuclear weapons, the United States suspended New Zealand from the ANZUS alliance. The purpose of the proposed legislation was to update the law with respect to New Zealand's new status.

(j) MIAs/POWs.—In conjunction with the House Task Force on POWs/MIAs, the subcommittee held a joint hearing in September of 1987, on the question of the fate of those Americans who did not return from the war in Indochina. The subcommittee reviewed developments on this issue over the preceding several months, with a particular focus on the efforts of General John Vessey, Presidential Envoy to Hanoi on POWs/MIAs. In April of 1988, the subcommittee met again on this same question, and to review proposed legislation to direct the heads of Federal departments and agencies holding records concerning reported "live sightings" of American military personnel classified as POWs or MIAs to make such records public.

(k) Fiji.—In October of 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing in order to assess recent developments in Fiji, including two military coups in that country over the course of several months. Representatives of the Department of State testified about the prospects for stability in Fiji, and the suspension of U.S. aid to Fiji as a result of the coup.

(l) Tibet.—The subcommittee held a joint hearing in conjunction with the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations in October of 1987. The hearing focused on the implications of the human rights situation with respect to United States-Chinese relations.

(m) Compact of Free Association Between Palau and the United States.—In December of 1987, the subcommittee met to review the approval process for the Palau Compact in both Palau and the United States. The subcommittee addressed reports that violence and intimidation were utilized to garner support for the Compact and to stifle opposition. In March of 1988, the subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations to hear a report on developments in Palau since the subcommittee's December hearing.

(n) Afghanistan.—The subcommittee held two hearings in February of 1988 to discuss recent shifts in the Soviet Union's position that might make an agreement for a Soviet troop withdrawal from Afghanistan possible. In May of 1988, the subcommittee held a hearing to examine the Geneva Accords, signed May 14th, which provided for the total withdrawal of all Soviet troops from Afghanistan by February of 1989 and for the safe return of the Afghan refugees under United Nations auspices who have fled the country since 1979.

(o) Recent Events in Thailand Involving Vietnamese Refugees.—In February of 1988, the subcommittee met to investigate recent reports of boat push-offs, drownings, and denial of first asylum to Vietnamese refugees seeking to enter Thailand.

(p) Bangladesh.—In April of 1988, the subcommittee held a hearing to discuss charges of election fraud, voter intimidation, and the role of the military in the March parliamentary elections in Bangladesh which were boycotted by the opposition parties. The subcommittee held a hearing in September of 1988 to discuss the disastrous impact in Bangladesh of recent floods that drove millions of people from their homes and destroyed large parts of the country's transportation system and agricultural crops.

(q) Political Trends in Taiwan.—The subcommittee met in May of 1988, to review recent political developments in Taiwan since Chiang Ching-Kuo's death in January 1988. Special attention was focused on the easing of previous political repression as a result of the lifting of martial law.

(r) Sale of the AEGIS Weapon System to Japan.—In June of 1988, the subcommittee met in conjunction with the Subcommittee on International Security and Science to consider the issue of whether the United States should sell the advanced AEGIS weapon to the Japanese Armed Forces. Particular attention was focused on security considerations involved in selling the weapon system to Japan.

(s) Cambodia.—The subcommittee held a hearing in June of 1988, to examine the proposals for a political settlement in Cambodia in light of Vietnam's professed determination to withdraw all of its troops from Cambodia by the end of 1990. The subcommittee heard testimony from survivors of the Khmer Rouge genocide from 1975-

1979, private witnesses involved with groups aiding the refugees, and representatives of the executive branch.

(t) Implications of Establishing Reciprocal Interest Sections With Vietnam.—In July of 1988, the subcommittee met to consider proposed legislation calling for the United States to establish diplomatic relations at the interest section level with Vietnam. The hearing focused on the ramifications of such a move on Vietnam's withdrawal of troops from Cambodia, and other humanitarian issues of concern that exist between the United States and Vietnam.

(u) Proposed Sale and Launch of U.S. Satellites on Chinese Missiles.—In September of 1988, the subcommittee, along with the Subcommittees on Arms Control, International Security and Science and on International Economic Policy and Trade conducted a hearing to examine the issues surrounding the sale and launch of U.S.-manufactured satellites on the PRC's "Long March" rocket.

2. Other Activities

(a) Briefings.—The subcommittee held continual briefings, both in open and closed sessions, during the 100th Congress on issues and topics of interest to the subcommittee, including: (1) Pakistan and India's nuclear program; (2) the situation in Laos and Cambodia; (3) the coup attempt in the Philippines; (4) the Arshad Pervez case; (5) refugees in Southeast Asia; and (6) situation reports for countries under the jurisdiction of the subcommittee.

F. Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade

1. Hearings

(a) Omnibus Trade Legislation.—In February and March of 1987, the subcommittee held six days of hearings on aspects of Title III of the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988 under the jurisdiction of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. The subcommittee first reviewed the National Academy of Sciences (NAS) report examining the U.S. export control program and recommending ways to improve the system. Secondly, the subcommittee examined the export promotion sections of the bill, including U.S. Government export financing and promotion services, and various Federal finance and insurance programs available to U.S. businesses, including the U.S. mixed credits program. Findings from these extensive hearings were incorporated into the subcommittee's recommendations to the full committee on the proposed legislation.

(b) Export Administration/Technology Transfer:

(i) U.S. and Multilateral Export Controls.—The subcommittee met in June of 1987 to review the diversion of sensitive Western technology to the Soviet Union by Japan's Toshiba Company and Norway's Kongsberg Trading Company. The subcommittee attempted from the hearing to establish the facts of the case, and to examine ways in which potential illegal transfers of technology could be prevented in the future.

In a follow-up hearing in November of 1987, the subcommittee reviewed the status of multilateral export controls following the Toshiba/Kongsberg diversion. The Departments of Commerce, State, and Defense, as well as the U.S. Customs Service testified on the effectiveness of current export control regimes within the individual member countries of COCOM and suggested improvements in current multilateral controls on sensitive technology. Again in November of 1987, the subcommittee met to review Western bank lending to the Soviet Union and the Eastern Bloc, and to examine legislation designed to extend export controls to cover capital transfers to controlled countries.

(ii) Technology Transfers.—In July of 1987 the subcommittee met to review the report by the Office of Technology Assessment on Western technology transfer to the People's Republic of China.

(iii) Anti-Terrorism and Arms Export Amendments Act of 1988.—The subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, and on International Operations in March of 1988 to survey proposed legislation providing for a unified United States anti-terrorism and arms export control policy.

(iv) Oversight of the Office of Munitions Control.—In July of 1988, the subcommittee, in conjunction with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science, conducted a hearing to review policies and procedures of the Office of Munitions Control within the Department of State, which regulates the export of defense articles and services.

(v) Proposed Chinese Launch of U.S. Satellites.—The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittees on Arms Control, International Security and Science and on Asian and Pacific Affairs in September of 1988 to examine the administration's notification of intent to approve licenses for the sale of U.S. satellites to Australia which are to be launched by the People's Republic of China.

(c) U.S. Export Competitiveness:

(i) Countertrade.—In June and July of 1987, the subcommittee held joint hearings with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science to review U.S. policy on countertrade and offsets, and the effects of such trade practices on U.S. competitiveness, the domestic economy, and international commerce.

(ii) U.S. Fisheries Promotion.—The subcommittee held oversight hearings in November of 1987 and again in March of 1988, on national policy related to U.S. fisheries export promotion. Witnesses included representatives from the Departments of State, Commerce, and Agriculture, from fisheries trade associations and seafood processors.

(iii) Log Exports.—In November of 1987, and again in April of 1988, the subcommittee held hearings to review proposed legislation to authorize states to prohibit the export of unprocessed logs harvested from state-owned or state-administered lands.

(iv) U.S. and Foreign Commercial Service.—In May of 1988, the subcommittee was joined by the Subcommittee on International Operations in conducting an oversight hearing on the U.S. and Foreign Commercial Service.

(d) Economic and Trade Sanctions:

(i) South Africa Sanctions.—The subcommittee held a hearing in June of 1987, with the Subcommittee on Africa, to review the Comprehensive Anti-Apartheid Act of 1986. Testimony was received from representatives of the Departments of Commerce, Defense, State, and Treasury on the Administration's implementation of the Act and on recent developments in South Africa. In November of 1987, the subcommittee met again jointly to review the President's first annual statutory "Report on Progress Toward Ending Apartheid in South Africa," and to consider the question of additional sanctions against South Africa. The subcommittees conducted joint hearings again in March and April of 1988 to review proposed legislation for additional economic sanctions against South Africa.

(ii) Ethiopia.—In September and October of 1987, the subcommittee conducted hearings jointly with the Subcommittees on Human Rights and International Organizations, and on Africa to consider the human rights situation in Ethiopia. During these hearings the subcommittees reviewed proposed legislation which would impose sanctions against Ethiopia unless progress is achieved in the human rights area.

(iii) Nicaragua.—The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere Affairs in December of 1987 to review the status of the U.S. economic and trade embargo imposed against Nicaragua in May of 1985, and the administration's interpretation of the statutory exemptions for humanitarian exports.

(iv) Agricultural Export Sanctions.—In June of 1988, the subcommittee held a hearing on proposed legislation to exempt agricultural exports from U.S. economic sanctions. Testimony was presented by the sponsor of the legislation, and representatives from the Departments of Agriculture, State, and Treasury, as well as witnesses from the private sector.

(e) Trade and Development:

(i) Micro-Enterprise Development.—The subcommittee held a hearing in March of 1987 to review legislation which would provide loans to micro-enterprises and the very poor in developing countries.

(ii) Overseas Private Investment Corporation.—In March of 1988, the subcommittee held hearings on the oversight and reauthorization of the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, and the administration's proposal for funding for the Corporation.

(f) Regional Trade and International Economic Policy Matters:

(i) United States-Japan Economic Relations.—The subcommittee held a series of joint hearings with the Subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs in 1987 and in 1988 to assess the status of U.S. economic and trade relations with Japan. These hearings focused in the causes of the economic imbalances between the two countries, the impact of negotiated market openings, and overall relations between the United States and Japan.

(ii) The Venice Economic Summit.—In preparation for the Venice Economic Summit in June of 1987, the subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East to consider the priorities of the United States for the 13th annual economic summit of Western industrialized nations.

(iii) United States-Soviet Trade Relations.—The subcommittee held joint hearings with the Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East in July and September of 1987, to examine the recent adoption by the Soviet Central Committee and the Supreme Soviet of General Secretary Gorbachev's economic reform package, and its potential effects on United States-Soviet trade and relations.

(iv) U.S.-U.S.S.R. Fisheries Agreement.—In June of 1988, the subcommittee conducted a joint oversight hearing with the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations on the recently negotiated U.S.-U.S.S.R. Fisheries Agreement.

(v) U.S.-East European Trade Relations.—The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East in October of 1988 to assess the state of U.S. economic relations with Eastern Europe.

(vi) African Trade and Investment.—In September of 1987, the subcommittee met to consider U.S. trade and investment relations with Sub-Saharan Africa and proposals to generate additional trade between the U.S. and Africa through the Export-Import Bank and the Overseas Private Investment Corporation.

(vii) United States-Canada.—The subcommittee met in conjunction with the Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere Affairs in February of 1988, to examine the nature, scope, and content of the recently negotiated U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement.

(viii) Central American Development Organization.—In March of 1988 the subcommittee met to assess progress in the creation of the Central American Development Organization.

(ix) Global Growth.—In May and September of 1988, the subcommittee held two hearings on how to promote global growth in the 1990's. The first hearing generally addressed the problems limiting world economic growth in the next decade, and explored ways in which global growth may be encouraged in the 1990's. The second hearing focused on restructuring the world economy to promote mutual growth in the developed and developing nations, and reviewed options to foster greater trade between the U.S. and Latin America.

(x) Caribbean Basin.—The subcommittee held a series of hearings in August of 1988 with the Subcommittees on Human Rights and International Organizations and on Western Hemisphere Affairs to review legislation entitled, "The Caribbean Regional Development Act."

(xi) Panama.—In October of 1988, the subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere Affairs to review proposed legislation to support the people of Panama in their transition to democracy.

(xii) Foreign investment.—The subcommittee conducted two hearings in September of 1988 to review foreign investment in the United States. These hearings focused on the character, scope, and effects of foreign investment in the United States, and specifically, on the adequacy of foreign direct investment data collected under the International Investment and Trade in Services Survey Act.

(g) Nuclear Non-Proliferation.—In July and October of 1987, and again in February of 1988, the subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs to examine the status of U.S. nuclear non-proliferation policy towards Pakistan. In addition, these hearings focused on Pakistan's attempt to procure nuclear goods illegally in the United States.

2. Other Activities

(a) Briefings.—During the 100th Congress, the subcommittee conducted continuous briefings on subjects of interest, including: (1)

South African sanctions; (2) technology security diversions; (3) COCOM; (4) GATT Trade Negotiations; (5) semiconductor agreement; (6) Pakistan's nuclear program; (7) agricultural exports; and (8) Vietnam claims.

(b) Study Missions.—In January of 1987, the subcommittee undertook a study mission to the Philippines, Indonesia, India, and Korea for the purpose of examining economic and trade relations between the United States and these nations. In January of 1988, subcommittee staff participated in a study mission to Japan for the purpose of examining steps taken by the Japanese Government and the private sector in response to the illegal transfer of technology from Japan to the Soviet Union, and to examine Japan's nuclear non-proliferation policy in connection with the then-pending, renegotiated agreement between Japan and the U.S. governing the peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

(c) Studies.—To assist in its review of the trade embargo imposed against Nicaragua in May of 1985, the subcommittee requested a CRS study of the impact of the sanctions on the Nicaraguan economy. The published report is entitled, "The U.S. Trade Embargo Against Nicaragua After Two-and-a-half Years."

In August of 1988, the subcommittee in conjunction with the Subcommittee on International Operations requested the General Accounting Office to undertake an investigation of the organization, management, and budget of the U.S. and Foreign Commercial Service.

G. Subcommittee on International Operations

H. Subcommittee on Africa

1. Hearings

(a) Foreign Assistance Legislation.—In March of 1987, the subcommittee held a series of hearings on economic and security assistance authorizations for Africa for fiscal years 1988–89. The African Famine Recovery and Development Act, introduced by the chairman of the subcommittee, was incorporated into the subcommittee's recommendations to the full committee, and subsequently assimilated into the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1987.

(b) Anti-Apartheid Legislation.—The subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade in June of 1987 to review the implementation of the Comprehensive Anti-Apartheid Act of 1986, and to review the administration's implementation of this Act.

(c) Possible Violation of the Clark Amendment.—In July of 1987, the subcommittee held an oversight hearing in an effort to investigate persistent and disturbing reports that the administration had violated or circumvented the Clark Amendment which had been in force from 1976 to 1985.

(d) Detained Children in South Africa.—The subcommittee met in July of 1987 to review legislation calling for the immediate release of all the children detained under the state of emergency regulations in South Africa, and calling for strong and sweeping sanctions against South Africa if children were not released from detention.

(e) Human Rights in Ethiopia.—In September and October of 1987, the subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittees on Human Rights and International Organizations and on International Economic Policy and Trade to examine continuing Congressional concerns of human rights abuses, and the very serious emergency situation with respect to the availability of food in Ethiopia.

(f) President's Report on Apartheid in South Africa.—In November of 1987, the subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade to focus on the President's report mandated by the Congress relating to future sanctions in South Africa. Witnesses not only represented prominent Americans in and out of the U.S. Government, but also leading South Africans from various sectors within South Africa.

(g) U.S. Response to Relief Efforts in Sudan, Ethiopia, Angola, and Mozambique.—In March of 1988, the subcommittee met jointly with the Select Committee on Hunger to assess the emergency situation in the Sudan, Angola, Ethiopia, and Mozambique. In addition, the hearing examined the American response to the urgent relief needs.

(h) Media Restrictions in South Africa.—The subcommittee held hearings in March of 1988, on the impact of South African Government restrictions on the media's ability to inform both South Africa's majority population and those outside of South Africa of the realities there. The subcommittee also examined the phases of press restrictions, reviewed the accumulated evidence of actions taken against journalists, and discussed how the restrictions alter the quality and aggregate volume of foreign press coverage of South Africa.

(i) Proposed Economic Sanctions Against South Africa.—In March of 1988, the subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade to review proposed legislation calling for specific new sanctions against South Africa. Witnesses at these hearings included Members of Congress, representatives of the Departments of State, Commerce, Treasury, and Defense.

(j) Ethiopia: The Famine Crisis.—The subcommittee held a joint hearing in April of 1988, with the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations to determine what more the Congress, the administration, and the international community as a whole could do to best preserve lives in Ethiopia.

(k) Reported Massacres and Indiscriminate Killings in Somalia.—In July of 1988, the subcommittee held a hearing to respond to reports of major clashes between rebel Somalia National Movement forces and government troops in Northern Somalia, and in response to numerous eyewitness accounts of gross human rights violations by the Government of Somalia.

(l) The Current Situation in Burundi and U.S. Policy.—The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations in September of 1988, to express concern about the violence and reports that several thousand civilians had been killed by government troops in disturbances involving the Hutu and Tutsi in northern Burundi.

2. Other Activities

(a) Briefings.—During 1987 and 1988, the subcommittee held numerous briefings and meetings with various agencies and departments within the administration and with individuals outside of the U.S. Government. Topics included: (1) the African famine; (2) meetings between the European Community and the Southern Africa Development Coordinating Conference (SADCC); (3) children detained with trial in South Africa; (4) the situation in Angola, Mozambique, and Zimbabwe; (5) the military situation in northern Somalia; (6) political parties in Liberia; and, (7) the Angolan, Cuban, and South Africa peace negotiations.

(b) Study Mission to Africa.—In January of 1987, Members of Congress traveled to Botswana, Zimbabwe, and Kenya. The purpose of this study mission was to attend the African-American Institute Annual Conference in Botswana. In addition, the group traveled to Zimbabwe to review U.S.-Zimbabwe relations, and to Kenya to examine possible human rights violations.

(c) Study Mission to Mozambique.—Members of the subcommittee traveled to Mozambique in April of 1987 to examine recent developments in that country. Staff from the Select Committee on Hunger also participated in this study mission.

(d) Study Mission to the Sudan and Ethiopia.—In the fall of 1988, Members and staff of the subcommittee and the Select Committee on Hunger participated in a study mission to the Horn of Africa. The principal purpose of this mission was to gain firsthand knowledge of the evolving emergency relief situation in the Sudan and Ethiopia, including camp visits in Ethiopia populated by Sudanese and Somali refugees.

(e) Study Mission to Ghana, the Ivory Coast, and Senegal.—In December of 1988, staff of the subcommittee traveled to Ghana, the Ivory Coast, and Senegal. The purpose of this mission was to observe the structural adjustment experience in these countries. The focus of the trip was on macro economic policies as set up within the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund (IMF) framework, and the human side of this policy.

(f) OTA Study.—At the request of the subcommittee, the Office of Technology Assessment conducted a study of a comprehensive assessment as to whether the African Development Foundation's (ADF) activities are contributing to the overall development in Africa.

(g) GAO Studies.—Two classified investigations were made by the General Accounting Office (GAO) at the request of the subcommittee involving the possibility of the violation of the Clark Amendment.

I. Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere Affairs

1. Hearings

(a) Foreign Assistance.—In February and March of 1987, the subcommittee conducted hearings to review the administration's request for economic and military assistance for Latin America and the Caribbean for fiscal year 1988. Representatives of the Departments of State and Defense and the Agency for International Development testified on the funding request.

(b) Caribbean:

(i) Haiti.—The subcommittee met in November of 1987 to review the situation surrounding the transition to democracy in Haiti, and to evaluate the effectiveness of the Administration's policy with respect to the transition. In March of 1988, the subcommittee held two days of hearings to examine the political situation in Haiti following the election of President Leslie Manigat. These hearings focused on the legitimacy of the new government and options for U.S. policy.

(ii) Development Policy in the Caribbean.—During July and August of 1988, the subcommittee, in conjunction with the Subcommittees on Human Rights and International Organizations and on International Economic Policy and Trade, met to survey legislation entitled, "The Caribbean Regional Development Act of 1988." The purpose of this legislation was to promote equitable and participatory development in the region.

(iii) Cuba.—In September of 1988, the subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittee on International Operations to review the feasibility and the foreign policy implications of television broadcasting to Cuba ("TV Marti"). This hearing was held in response to the Senate's vote to appropriate $7.5 million for the start-up costs of "TV Marti."

(c) Central America:

(i) The Central American Peace Process.—The subcommittee held continuous hearings during the 100th Congress to examine the ongoing prospects for peace in Central America. In July of 1987, the subcommittee held a hearing with the President's Special Envoy to Central America, Ambassador Philip Habib, who presented an update on recent events concerning the Arias Peace Proposal. The subcommittee met again in October of 1987 to monitor the progress of the Central American peace process. Finally in June of 1988, the subcommittee held a hearing to review the implementation of House Joint Resolution 523, a humanitarian assistance package adopted by the Congress to support the Central American peace process, and in particular to support the Sapoa Accord signed by the Nicaraguan Government and its armed opposition.

(ii) Democratic Transitions in Central America.—In June of 1988, the subcommittee conducted a hearing to scrutinize the results of the military and economic assistance provided by the United States to support transitions to civilian democratic rule in El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras from 1981 to 1988.

(iii) El Salvador.—The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations in September of 1987 to consider human rights and political developments in El Salvador. The subcommittees received testimony from representatives of the Bureau of Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs of the Department of State, human rights monitoring groups, and labor organizations.

(iv) Honduras.—In May of 1987, the subcommittee met in conjunction with the Subcommittee on Arms Control, International Security and Science to assess the impact of the sale of advanced fighter aircraft to Honduras.

(v) Nicaragua.—The subcommittee held a hearing in May of 1987, in response to the death of the first U.S. citizen as a consequence of the Nicaraguan conflict. The purpose of the hearing was to assess the safety of U.S. citizens and volunteers working in Nicaragua, and to examine the circumstances surrounding the death of Benjamin Linder. In December of 1987, the subcommittee held a joint hearing with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade to hear testimony on the status of the U.S. trade embargo against Nicaragua.

(vi) Panama.—In response to allegations made by a high-ranking Panamanian military officer against General Manuel Antonio Noriega, and a June 10, 1987, state of emergency imposed by the Government of Panama, the subcommittee held hearings in June of 1987 to examine the situation in Panama. In April, May and June of 1988, the subcommittee conducted a series of hearings to examine the political situation in Panama and the effects of U.S. policy, including the application of economic sanctions. Finally, in October of 1988, the subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade to review proposed legislation to provide assistance to rebuild the Panamanian economy following the departure of General Noriega and the start of a transition to democracy.

(d) South America:

(i) Chile.—The subcommittee met jointly with the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations in April and May of 1988 to survey the prospects for democracy in Chile and the role of U.S. policy toward Chile.

(ii) Colombia.—In May of 1987, the subcommittee met to review legislation expressing the appreciation of the Congress to President Virgilio Barco and the people of Colombia for their efforts to combat drug trafficking and drug abuse.

(e) Canada.—The subcommittee held a hearing in February of 1988, jointly with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade to review the U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement. The purpose of the hearing was to provide Members with a general overview of the agreement before the agreement was submitted to Congress for consideration.

(f) International Narcotics Control.—The subcommittee met in March of 1988, to review several joint resolutions disapproving the President's 1988 certifications with respect to the Bahamas, Bolivia, Paraguay, Peru, and Mexico under section 481(h) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, pertaining to international narcotics control.

(g) International Boundary and Water Commission.—In September of 1988, the subcommittee met to review a resolution commending the International Boundary and Water Commission for its efforts during the past one hundred years to improve the social and economic welfare of the United States and Mexico.

(h) Rio Grande American Canal Extension.—In conjunction with the Subcommittee on International Operations, the subcommittee held a hearing in October of 1988, on legislation to direct the Secretary of State to construct, operate, and maintain an extension of the American Canal at El Paso, Texas.

2. Other Activities

(a) Briefings.—During the 100th Congress, the subcommittee held informal briefings on issues relating to the nations of the Western Hemisphere, including: (1) Caribbean development; (2) situation reports on regions under the subcommittee's jurisdiction; (3) the Central American Peace Plan; (4) and the Administration of Justice Program.

(b) Study Missions:

(i) Barbados.—In September of 1987, the subcommittee, together with the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade, travelled to Barbados. The purpose of the study mission was to participate in a symposium with representatives of all sectors of the Caribbean region in order to assess the impact of the Caribbean

Basin Initiative, and to receive recommendations for improvements directly from the intended beneficiaries. The transcript and report of the study mission were subsequently published under the titles, "Study Mission and Symposium on the Caribbean Basin Initiative," and "The Caribbean Basin Initiative: Caribbean Views."

The subcommittees returned to Barbados in February of 1988, to discuss a draft of legislation concerning Caribbean development. This proposed legislation was a product of the September 1987 symposium. The transcript and report of the trip were published under the titles, "Proposals to Strengthen U.S.-Caribbean Economic Relations," and "United States-Caribbean Economic Relations," respectively.

(c) CRS Reports.—In November of 1987, the Subcommittee published a report, prepared by the Foreign Affairs and National Defense Division of the Congressional Research Service on the compliance of each of the Central American countries with the peace agreement signed by the five Central American Presidents on August 7, 1987, in Guatemala. The report was entitled, "Central American Compliance with the August 7, 1987 Peace Agreement as of November, 1987."

In order to assess the need for additional U.S. scholarship programs for Caribbean citizens, the subcommittee requested the Congressional Research Service to prepare a report on existing scholarship programs in the Caribbean. The report, "U.S. Government Scholarship Programs Benefiting C.B.I. Countries" was published in May of 1988.

Following the implementation of U.S. economic sanctions against the Government of Panama, the subcommittee requested an analysis by the Congressional Research Service on the effects of the sanctions on the Panamanian economy. This report, "U.S. Sanctions and the Status of the Panamanian Economy," was published in August of 1988.

Finally, to continue its review of the Administration of Justice program, the subcommittee requested the Congressional Research Service to prepare the report, "Description and Evaluation of the Administration of Justice Program in Latin America and the Caribbean." The report was published in December of 1988.

APPENDIX I

INVENTORY OF COMMITTEE JURISDICTION

This inventory was prepared by the Foreign Affairs and National Defense Division of the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress to assist the committee in fulfilling its responsibility to submit a biennial report to the House on its continuing review and study of the "application, administration, and execution of those laws or parts of laws, the subject matter of which is within the jurisdiction of that committee," as directed by section 136 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1970. The inventory, which is refined and updated periodically may not contain all provisions of existing laws which come under the committee's jurisdiction.
